Finding Dollars In Your Operation

Where Is The Money?

Most businesses are so focused on their core products or services, they may often neglect their indirect costs. It is easy to overlook such things as phone charges, credit card fees, office supplies, equipment service contracts, utilities, payroll processing. Etc. Just about any P/L line is game. Just think of what saving dollars in these areas could do for your bottom line.

What We Do

We can save your company money by establishing lower prices for goods and services of the same or higher quality, from your current supplier or, in some cases, an approved new source. We can also consult on improving your procurement process.

How We Do It

We apply the most current purchasing methods to your most cost sensitive requirements. We can negotiate new contracts or renegotiate current contracts based on your current and future volume. We intensely research markets and take the time to determine the highest value provider available.

What It Costs

Our service is truly risk free. Expense Savers works on a contingency basis. Our fees will accrue only when your company realizes documented savings. In a typical engagement, the client will split any savings with Expense Savers over a 24-month period. After that, the supplier contacts, price agreements and savings are yours.

Areas of Opportunity

Here is a sample of cost categories that could offer you savings:

- Computer & Office Equipment Maintenance Consolidation
- Credit-Card Processing
- Energy Conservation
- Freight & Overnight Shipping
- Office Supplies & Equipment
- Printing & Forms
- Property Taxes
- Raw Materials
- Telecommunications
- Waste Management

Why It Works

Introducing a third party into the purchasing process causes suppliers to seriously reevaluate their position. Plus, if we don't save you money, we don't make money! It's that simple.

Cost Containment Strategy

Key Benefit

Using Expense Savers to analyze, research, and negotiate for you will allow you and your employees to focus on your core business tasks, yet maintain a firm handle on controllable costs that can rob your bottom line.
